- Description
  This website lets BMW owners post their builds and people. People can share dyno numbers, 0–60, quarter mile, and race summaries with links, pics, and videos. People can show the parts they got and link them if other people want them.There is a Tips and Guides area for install notes, tuning advice, and maintenance. People who visit the site can search by model and engine to find the builds to help them.The site achieves data cleanliness through a fundamental review system which enables users to request administrator approval for content before it gets published. The administrator also manages the master Parts and Shops lists.We will use login security so every account is protected.
